COME JOIN US! WON'T YOU?

TROY GALLAGHER

LARRY WOODWARD

Troy Gallagher, Section Chair of the Michigan Section/American Water Works Association, and Larry Woodward, President of the Michigan Water Environment Association, extend their most cordial invitations for all of you to join them at this year's Joint Conference. Not since 2004 in Grand Rapids have these two groups joined forces to hold a uniquely dynamic event for water professionals. Just imagine the merging of Michigan's two premier annual gatherings for the water industry. Please plan to take advantage of the diverse offerings of educational and networking opportunities.

This celebration of Michigan's finest water professionals will be held August 10-13 at the Soaring Eagle Resort and Conference Center in Mt. Pleasant, Michigan. The theme for this gathering is Great Lakes, Great People to recognize the two greatest assets of Michigan's water environment.

A quality technical program has been assembled with a focus on enhancing the knowledge base of the dedicated individuals serving the water and wastewater professions. In addition, senior level speakers from MDNRE, WEF, and AWWA will provide their unique perspectives relating to their organizations to conference attendees. The educational sessions of the conference will further offer a diverse selection of technical, personnel, and management-related training topics. The general sessions will apply to everyone in the industry and there will be breakout sessions directed at the specific disciplines represented by each of our organizations. Everyone will have ample opportunity to address their Continuing Education

Credits (CEC) needs. The technical program, along with the planned entertainment and social activities, will provide opportunities for meeting and greeting old and new friends alike.

We have received commitments from three outstanding featured speakers, Lloyd Carr, the greatly respected and successful former football coach of the University of Michigan, Jim Sygo, Deputy Director of the newly reorganized Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Environment and staunch advocate for Michigan's waters, and John McCulloch, Water Resources Commissioner for Oakland County. These three men should provide valuable insight and inspiration for all of us.

This year's event will be a hybrid of the schedule and formats of each organization's annual conferences. Please read the Conference Highlights section below carefully so as to fully understand the differences from your regular events. Be on the lookout for such items as:

- The normal AWWA daily schedule will be followed (we did MWEA's schedule in 2004).
- There will be two preconference seminars starting the morning of the first day.
- The registration fee will include three meals.
- The hotel room rate will not include any meals.
- For your convenience online registration is available.

We look forward to sharing what is destined to be an exceptionally valuable, entertaining, and memorable time with all of you. See you there!

THE 2010 JOINT CONFERENCE GOLF OUTING

THURSDAY, AUGUST 12TH • 12PM

The AWWA's Safe Water in Ecuador committee is sponsoring this year's conference golf outing, which will take place on Thursday, August 12, 2010. The outing is a great opportunity to raise funds for our water supply projects in Ecuador. We would like your firm to sponsor a hole this year.

Through past support of AWWA and MWEA members and associates, we have been able to help pay for construction of twelve water supply systems in Ecuador. These Quichua villages, located in the Andes Mountains, now have clean water supplies to replace untreated open ditch water.

Safe Water in Ecuador is currently working with Bruce Rydbeck, our partner in Ecuador, to select another community in which to construct a water supply. Money raised at the golf outing will be used for this new project. As in the past, the villagers are providing all the labor.

Show your support of the efforts for Safe Water in Ecuador by making a contribution of $250 to sponsor a golf hole at the 2010 Joint Conference Golf Outing. See Golf Registration Form on page 17 of this brochure.
